

Don't Let The Huns SHOW US UP

IN THREE YEARS Germany and Austria-Hungary have raised TWENTY-EIGHT BILLION DOLLARS by war loans.

This stupendous sum is a small part of the cost of the war to these powers.

That's the way America's enemies are backing their soldiers. It shows how determined the Prussians are to Germanize the world.

The Kaiser expects to get this money back WITH INTEREST as an indemnity from America. He expects to make YOU PAY THE BILL.

AMERICANS, WILL YOU TOLERATE THIS?

The United States has raised less than SIX BILLION dollars through Liberty Bonds, an insignificant sum compared with enemy's TWENTY-EIGHT BILLION. How do you expect your Government to wage a victorious war against such odds?

Invest every dollar you can now in

LIBERTY BONDS

Show the Kaiser that the United States is not money-mad. Convince him that America is determined to win this war AT ANY COST. Let your subscription be a warning to him that he will NOT COLLECT ONE DOLLAR of indemnity FROM YOU. Invest in the BIGGEST BOND YOU CAN.

B. L. Quarles, County Chairman Liberty Loan Committee

This is NOT A "Pocket Change War"

It will take Billions and Billions to finance it. More than $600,000,000 has been appropriated for aeroplanes alone! How much of this did you subscribe?

LIBERTY BONDS

Give Uncle Sam the mastery of the air.

FLORIDA BOY SELLS PAPERS TO BUY BONDS

JOHN T. MAXWELL

This 14-year-old youngster of Perry, Taylor county, Florida, is pointing the way to other boys, and men, too, in this national crisis when men and money are needed by the government in the fight against Prussian autocracy. He invested $250 of his earnings from the sale of newspapers in his home town in bonds of the Second Liberty Loan. He accumulated this money without help from his father or anyone else. Since that time he has been saving his money and expects to subscribe to the Third Liberty Loan. John is so proud of his bonds that he has determined to keep on buying just as long as he can earn money and the Government has any bonds to offer.

AMERICA NOT SAFE FROM HUN ATTACK

Germany Determined To Keep Farmers From Shipping Products to European Markets.

Atlanta. — The average Southern farmer, situated far from the seacoast, thinks he is secure even should the Kaiser, in his mad desire for conquest, attempt an invasion of America.

He is enjoying the most prosperous period of his life. Cotton is bringing thirty cents a pound—and more; there is a ready market for hogs and cattle at fancy prices; food crops are being sold at unprecedented prices; and the manufacturers have paid top notch figures for velvet beans and other crops.

It is but natural that the farmer, contented with life, should have no thought of the dangers surrounding him.

"Why should this war worry me?" the farmer asks himself, thinking of the miles of hills and valleys that separate him from the seacoast. "I am not concerned with the 'freedom of the seas' and Germany's right to overrun Belgium, France and Italy. If they should ever send an army here, why I'd fight," he says.

Anything that affects the general welfare of the country affects the farmer. And the "freedom of the seas"—no other policy established by the United States has been and will be more beneficial to the Southern farmer.

Keep Seas Free.

It was the government's determination to keep the seas free that has enabled the Southern farmer to market his cotton crop for thirty cents a pound instead of six.

When the war is over a steady stream of agricultural products manufactured articles and materials of all kinds will continue to flow to war-stricken Europe. Thousands of vessels will be engaged in this commerce. With a hungry market and plenty of bottoms available, freight rates will be correspondingly lower. The Southern farmer should be as vitally interested in ocean transportation as in rail transportation.

The rugged hills and vast plains will not stop Germany from wiping the commerce off the seas and cutting off the rest of Europe from trade with the Southern farmer. Neither will they protect the farmer should Germany actually invade America. A hostile army would not strike first at the farms. It would attack the seat of government—Washington—situated only a short distance from the sea. And once in control of Washington it would have the reins and from there would force the farmer to do its bidding.

Building Many Ships.

The United States Government has determined to check, not only Germany's greed for territory but its ambition to control the seas. The government has undertaken a shipbuilding program that will supply the vessels for the farmer to send his products to European markets, not only during the war but afterwards. These projects cannot be successfully carried out unless the government is given support by the people. Billions of dollars are needed. The farmer not only displays his patriotism by lending the Government money through subscribing to Liberty Bonds, but protects his future interests.
